

Comparing Ant Characteristics

Use the information you obtain from Harvard University's Museum of Comparative Zoology Database to complete this handout. Information on "Location" and "Type" can be found in the text description for each ant. You should reference the photos to write your own observations and descriptions for size, color, head shape, striations on head, and shape and length of body. If you notice anything unusual about the ant, you can include the information in the "Other notable characteristics" row.

	Species 1	Species 2	Species 3
Ant Name
Location/Region (if available)
Type (worker, soldier, etc.) (if available)
Size
Color
Head shape
Striations (grooves) on head?
Shape of spine
Length of spine
Other notable characteristics

